Dear Families,

Starting the new year, it is important to reflect on the past year and remind ourselves of our good parenting successes and the ways we have acted in the best interests of our children. We are often too quick to be critical of ourselves and forget all the wonderful nurturing we have done. As you reflect on all of your parenting moments, you might think about setting some parenting resolutions for 2018.

For some inspiration and New Year's resolution ideas, here are two examples of parenting resolutions, which you will find realistic and doable for 2018

1. Ensure that your child has completed his or her homework every day.

Homework is assigned every night at Aurora Collegiate. This means that families must help students with their homework in ways that include creating routines at home for students to follow each day, providing a quiet, organized place to work, and signing off on homework completion.

2. Ensure that your child comes to school in the Aurora Collegiate uniform every day.

Wearing the Aurora Collegiate uniform lays that firm foundation in preparing students for college and beyond and allows for students to look professional. Students look neat when they arrive to school with shirts tucked into their pants. Students come mentally prepared for school and "dressed for work."

Ensuring that your child completes his or her homework and that your child is in an Aurora Collegiate uniform serve as realistic and doable resolutions for 2018. Most importantly, supporting your child in these two areas establishes the necessary foundation for success in middle school, high school, college and beyond.

Very truly yours,
